Forecast For East Midlands
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Thursday 23 Dec 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Areas of fog overnight. Probably cloudy Friday, with late rain.

This Evening and Tonight:
Dry during the evening and overnight, with developing clear periods and light winds leading to extensive areas of fog developing later in the night. Locally chilly by dawn. Minimum temperature 3 deg C (37 deg F).

Friday:
Murky, with extensive areas of fog. Probably remaining rather cloudy throughout as a breeze develops, with rain eventually arriving into the evening, perhaps hill snow in the Peak District. Maximum temperature 9 deg C (48 deg F).

Outlook for Saturday to Monday:
Relatively high uncertainty. Most likely rather cloudy with some rain and perhaps hill snow Christmas Day. Probably unsettled Boxing Day with brighter interludes, ahead of a cloudier and damp Monday.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.